Vancouver Opens Its Airport At Sea Island Planes Put On Show At Terminal City's New Airfield Event

Premier Tolmie Speaks at Formal Opening of Sea Island Airport, Messages From Prince of Wales and British Air Secretary Read

Vancouver, July 22.—Cabled congratulations of the Prince of Wales and Lord Amulree, British Secretary of State for Air, were read by Premier Tolmie at the official opening ceremony of Vancouver's Sea Island Airport at 10.30 o'clock this forenoon.

With flags flying and bands playing, the ceremony at the airport was a most successful one. Premier Tolmie was introduced by Mayor D. Taylor and Alderman E. W. Chan, chairman of the civic airport committee. With aircraft of all shapes and colors ranged along the runway and hundreds of guests gathered in the grandstand, the Premier expressed a pleasure at Vancouver's air-mindedness.

The four-engine planes included machines of the TransCanada Air line, which later shared in a show, and a number of smaller planes.

"The Prince of Wales has heard with interest of the opening of the Vancouver airport which is to take place to-day. His Royal Highness sends his congratulations and best wishes for the success of this enterprise, which will do much to advance civil aviation ends," read the message from the Prince.

"I am glad to have this opportunity to congratulate the mayor, city council and citizens of Vancouver on the establishment of their airport. The enterprise shown by Vancouver indicates how fully Canada appreciates the importance and value of air commerce in the future commercial and industrial development and closer union of the British Commonwealth of Nations. The prime necessity of air transportation is proper ground organization, and establishing this new and up-to-date airport Vancouver has set a splendid example to other cities and towns throughout the Empire."

Attention of the Prince of Wales and Lord Amulree was drawn to Vancouver's $600,000 airport project by Hon. F. F. Burden, Agent-General of British Columbia in Great Britain.

REMIER SPEAKS
"Since I became a convert to this business I have made numerous flights and in my travels across Canada I have watched the manner in which the airport is being built."

MAN WHO SHOT SEEKS DAMAGES
Luscombe, Acquitted of Shooting, Launches Action Here

Dunnitt Replies With $5,304 Claim For Bullet Wounds in Groin
Charles Luscombe, of Prospect Lake, who was acquitted by a criminal jury at the last assizes of shooting to kill Harry Dunnitt at his place last October, has through his counsel, W. C. Moreby, K.C., started suit for $1,000 damages against Mr. Dunnitt.

Mr. Luscombe bases his suit on the damage to his health at the time of the shooting, and claims that Dunnitt "attempted to choke me." He also charges him with beating him, and with the use of a revolver.

Mr. Dunnitt in his statement to court stated that Luscombe, without provocation, assaulted him and caused him severe permanent injury by the shooting, as a result of which he has suffered much pain and been permanently incapacitated.

RUM RUNNERS IN CONVENTION IN NEW YORK
New York, July 22.—The New York American to-day said rum runners and bootleggers of the Atlantic seaboard were in convention at a hotel in an attempt to stabilize liquor prices.

The newspaper said one rum runner had complained that a competitor had cut his price from $8 to $3.50 a case for transporting liquor to shore from rum row.

SPECTACULAR EVENTS FOR HORSE SHOW

New Jumping Competitions to Be Featured at Provincial Exhibition

Champion Horse in Show and Best on North Vancouver Island to Be Determined

Spectacular jumping events, as well as contests to decide the champion saddle horse, mare or gelding, will feature the horse show at the Provincial Exhibition at the Willows, which opens on August 31. Splendid accommodation in the new horse show building has made it possible to add new competitions.

Among the features will be the jumpers' sweepstakes. Great interest has been aroused in this event, for which Hon. S. L. Howe, Provincial Secretary, has sponsored a prize of $500. In it each horse will take three jumps, consisting of two posts and a rail, four feet and a triple bar. Performances only will count in this event.

The Grafton brood jump, sponsored by Scott and Peden, in which horses will be ridden over one jump of two feet of timber with brush and pastured boxes on the far side will be another innovation. At the opening of the event, twelve feet of boxes will be placed behind the hurdle. These will be extended until the horses strike them when landing. In this way they will be eliminated.

Team events promise to be exceptionally exciting. In one, four horses will be driven to three jumps of three and one-half feet of timber, topped with six inches of brush.

Hunter classes for mares or geldings over four successive jumps will follow, after which hunting pairs, ridden abreast, will be sent over two jumps of four and four consecutive hurdles six inches high in height.

Saddle horse classes for children should prove of unusual interest. In one of these, youngsters between seven and ten years will compete for silver cups donated by Mrs. Dugald Gillespie, and a second prize trophy given by the Victoria Riding Academy.

Children over ten and under fifteen will seek the Victoria Riding Academy and D. B. McComan awards.

Rivalry promises to be particularly keen in the class for the champion saddle horse, mare or gelding in the 1931 show. In this division, winners of first-prize ribbons only will be allowed to compete for the Mrs. C. Donald trophy.

Prize equines of the Upper-Island will decide a question of long standing when they enter the contest for the best saddle horse, mare or gelding in the Shawanigan Lake and North Vancouver Island districts. For this class, F. Norris and Sons have donated a silver cup to be given to the first-place animal, while E. M. Whyte has given a silver cup for second.

Button Stops Bullet, Saves Governor's Life
Poona, India, July 22.—Sir John E. B. Motson, Acting Governor of Bombay, narrowly escaped death to-day when a bullet fired by a student, hit his coat just above the heart and was stopped by a metal stud of his pocketbook. A second shot went wide.

The Governor overpowered the youth, who was arrested. On him was found a second revolver, fully loaded. Sir John was not hurt and made light of his experience. The attack was made while he was inspecting Ferguson College. He had just entered the library when the student fired two shots at close range. After the arrest of the youth, Sir John resumed his inspection, and then returned to Government House.

U.S. Ex-Secretary Goes From Palatial Home To Prison

Albert Fall, right, former Secretary of the Interior of the United States, a couple of days ago left the richly appointed home at El Paso, Texas, pictured above, to start serving his sentence of a year and a day in the New Mexico prison. Fall was a member of the Harding Cabinet. It was his acceptance of a $100,000 bribe from E. L. Doheny, oil magnate, nearly ten years ago that led to his downfall.

Forest Fires Fought On Island As Hazard Increased By Heat

Blaze Burns Over Twenty Acres at Prospect Lake; Slash Fires Recur at Shawnigan and Nanaimo; Serious Fire in Kettle Valley Along C.P.R. Right-of-way

Not weather of the last few days has considerably increased the forest fire hazard in the province and Vancouver Island has suffered in several sections from outbreaks in the bush. Although none of the fires have reached serious proportions they have required careful attention by fire-fighting crews.

Twenty acres was burned over by a blaze which broke out yesterday afternoon at Prospect Lake, requiring a gang of fifteen men in addition to the Saanich fire department crew to fight it. Several summer homes were menaced by the flames.

The Shawnigan Lake Lumber Company's logging crew is fighting a fire at the lake on the company's operations. This blaze is a recurrence of a slash fire of April, the flames being fanned by a high wind over the whole of the old burn. It is understood the damage to timber is not serious.

A ten-acre blaze at Nanaimo on the operations of the Nanaimo Lumber Company is also a recurrence of a slash fire.

A small fire near Ladysmith, blazed on berry pickers, has been brought under control after covering about two acres.

In the interior of the province the situation is more serious with one fire which has been burning for two weeks near the Canadian Pacific Railway right-of-way, in the Kettle Valley, reported out of control.

In the city, a bush fire at Clover Point and a grass fire on the industrial reserve gave the local department work this afternoon.

A three-hour fight was required before the Prospect Lake fire was brought under control.

Approximately twenty acres were burned over by the blaze, which covered ground on both sides of Prospect Lake Road between the West Saanich Road and the lake. A house owned by A. Smith and a shack inhabited by Chinese were directly endangered by the flames but were saved through prompt action of the fire-fighters.

The fire broke out about 4 o'clock in the afternoon and was blazing merrily when the Saanich department was called out. It soon became evident that the department equipment would be insufficient and a gang of men was recruited to join the fight. A steady breeze hastened the spread of the flames, but they were checked before any damage was done to property.

ST. LAWRENCE CANAL BILL IS THROWN OUT
Ottawa, July 22.—The bill to authorize incorporation of the Ontario-Quebec Canal and Power Company will not be presented to the Commons this session. The purpose of the bill was to incorporate a company which had for its object the construction of a navigation and power canal on the north side of the St. Lawrence River. This canal, for a part of its distance, would be located approximately opposite to the Beauharnois development. The committee to-day threw out the bill.

King Clears Up Unfounded Press Statements About Trip He Made To Bermuda

China Leaders Make Threat Against Japan
Chiang Reported in Favor of Provinces Sending Troops to Korean Border
He is Said to Be Ready to Resign Presidency, But Continue as Army Chief

Associated Press
Hongkong, July 22.—The insurgent Canton government to-day announced receipt of a telegram from Chang Hsueh-ling, Governor of Manchuria, in behalf of Chiang Kai-shek, President of the Nationalist Government, in which the latter conditionally offered to resign and suggested all China unite in declaring war on Japan.

The telegram assertedly proposed in behalf of Chiang that all provinces in China contribute toward sending 500,000 troops to the Korean border as a military operation against Japan. Since the Canton government was represented as not approving the war proposal, the telegram as yet had not been answered.

MAY RESIGN PRESIDENCY
President Chiang, whose retirement was set forth as one of the principal purposes of the formation of the Canton government, was represented in the telegram as being willing to resign the Nationalist presidency, but desired to remain as commander-in-chief of the Nationalist army and navy.

Chiang was quoted as having suggested the elevation of Hu Han-min to the chairmanship of the Administrative Council, the highest office of the Nationalist government, now held by Chiang himself. The nationalist chief, said, was also quoted as saying that the selection of Wang Ching-wei, leftist leader, as head of the Kuomintang or People's Party.

The People's Party is the political organization behind the nationalist government. The organizers of the Canton government are for the most part members of the Kuomintang, who bolted the party because of their opposition to Chiang Kai-shek.

WAS IN PRISON
Hu Han-min formerly was head of the legislative department of the Nationalist Government, but was imprisoned at Nanking for a time for opposing the plans of Chiang Kai-shek. The message in behalf of Chiang was said to have suggested the formation of a council of elder members of the Kuomintang at Canton and that important measures have its sanction before becoming law.

DRAGON AND IDAHO LEAVE AFTER VISIT
British Light Cruiser Goes to Ladysmith and U.S. Battleship to Port Angeles

Victoria this morning bade farewell to the 1,900 British and United States sailors who played such an important part in the success of the Diamond Jubilee celebrations. Aboard H.M.S. Dragon in Esquimalt harbor and on the U.S.S. Idaho at Ogden Point the sailors were here four days.

The Dragon left Esquimalt for Ladysmith at 9.30 o'clock this morning, and the Idaho pulled away from her dock at 11 o'clock for Port Angeles.

As the Dragon steamed past Ogden Point this morning, the band of the Idaho struck up God Save the King. The British light cruiser passed by the waterfront slowly and gradually speeded up as she passed Trial Island. The Dragon will return to Esquimalt late in August for a short visit before sailing south, en route to her base at Bermuda.

CAPS AS MEMENTOES
There was excitement at Ogden Point this morning as the Idaho left for Port Angeles. The men, on the termination of their last leave, returned to the ship at 7 o'clock this morning, and by sailing time all was in order with the men lining the deck. Crowds of small boys and girls on the dock gathered around the gangway and fought furiously as blue-jackets threw caps as mementoes.

WAR PENSIONS RUSH NOW ON
Duncan Widow Claims Pyorrhea Caused Husband's Death Years Later
Col. Cy Peck, V.C., Says He Refused to Allow Dentist to Pull Teeth Out

To accommodate the rush of returned men, widows and relatives for post war pensions, Col. L. H. Mackenzie, D.S.O., and Col. Cy Peck, V.C., presiding judges, have arranged for special afternoon sessions of the Pensions Tribunal now in session in the Court of Appeal here.

A well-filled court room to-day heard medical testimony on duodenal ulcers and appendicitis and the stomach irritations caused by pyorrhea from Dr. Cyril Wace, Dr. H. E. Ridewood and Dr. H. P. Swan, of Duncan.

This was in connection with the death recently of a Duncan returned soldier, following an operation for appendicitis, which showed the man was really suffering from a duodenal ulcer. Claim of the young Duncan widow to be put on the Dominion pension list is being conducted by Gerald H. Sedger, soldiers' advocate.

Dr. Wace testified that pyorrhea was almost universal in the mouths of those coming back from France. Mr. Sedger directed the examination of Dr. Wace to prove that the mouth trouble had caused the stomach irritation.

Counsel opposing Mr. Sedger said that when the Duncan soldier was discharged the condition was set down in the medical sheet, and the man had available for his treatment the army hospital.

INTEREST CUT AFFECTS BUSINESS
Deposits In Banks, But Not Others
Shaw Rescued From Elevator in Moscow

Canadian Press
Ottawa, July 22.—Private deposits will not be affected by the reduction of one-half per cent in the interest rate on current accounts as announced by Canadian banks, according to local banking officials. The reduction from 3 per cent to 2½ per cent will go into effect August 1, and will apply strictly to current commercial accounts. Private deposits will continue to draw 3 per cent interest as usual, it was said.

Yesterday the Ottawa Evening Citizen published the following in its news columns:
"The Canadian banks have issued a notice to their customers that the interest on current accounts is to be reduced to 2½ per cent to take effect August 1."
The rates formerly were 3 per cent, calculated on the daily balance, or 2½ per cent, calculated on the minimum.

SHAW RESCUED FROM ELEVATOR IN MOSCOW
Moscow, July 22.—The first Russian to be rescued by the famous George Bernard Shaw, who is here with a British party seeing Moscow under the Soviet, was an elevator operator in his hotel. Flung by his distracted passenger, the operator made a bad landing five feet below the ground floor and the car jammed.
For five minutes G. B. S. fumed. So did Lady Astor, his fellow passenger. Finally they were rescued by a couple of newspapermen, who pulled them to freedom through a narrow aperture.

POOL MEMBERS MAY SELL WHEAT

Regina, July 22.—Announcement that Saskatchewan Wheat Pool members may themselves decide the method by which their grain shall be marketed, that the amount of initial payments will shortly be made public and that the pool will continue to operate for the 1931-32 crop season for the marketing of members' grain was made this morning in an official statement issued from pool headquarters here.

Pending the announcement of initial payment prices, elevator companies have been advised to issue storage tickets for pool grain, the statement further says. Other points are that no elevator or commercial reserve deduction will be made from grain delivered to the pool for the 1931-32 crop season, that growers unable to deliver their grain on the basis of the pool initial payment will be able to get a full open market settlement through the setting up of a commission department by the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool Elevators and that non-pool grain will be on an open market basis.

POSTMASTERS OF ALBERTA DEBATE RULES OF WORK

Edmonton, July 22.—Higher pay for postmasters, inauguration of a system of promotion, and relief from the eight-hour day and Minimum Wage Act were emphasized by H. Morgan of Edmonton, president of the Alberta Postmasters' Association, in delivering his report at the opening session of the fourth annual convention of that body here yesterday.

Speaking of the eight-hour day, the president said a resolution passed at the Dominion convention had shown it worked unfairly against postmasters.

Referring to another contentious point, he declared that in small offices such as those with revenue ranging from $3,000 to $5,000 a year, it was a hardship to ask the postmaster to pay his help the minimum wage. He cited an instance where the postmaster's assistant received $1 a month more than the postmaster through the enforcement of the minimum wage.

LONDON IN SUSPENSE

London, July 22.—Suspense regarding the outcome of the seven-power conference was responsible for inactivity to-day on the Stock Exchange. There were only small dealings with reactionally easier quotations. German bonds being an exception with a two-cent drop.

Yesterday's gold exports were more than $3,000,000 and prospecting of more to-day stiffened discounts and caused discussion about whether the bank rate would be protectively raised.

SENATE VOTES DOWN RULE BEIQUE URGES

Senators Remain Free to Take Profits From Dealings
With Government

Ottawa, July 22.—By a vote of thirty-five to thirteen, the Senate yesterday evening defeated the motion of Hon. P. L. Beique, Liberal, Montreal, for the adoption of a new rule governing the relationship of Senators with the government or government departments.

Party lines were divided on the motion, which read: "No Senator shall be entitled, directly or indirectly, personally or as a member of a firm, or as a shareholder of a personal or family corporation, to any benefit or profits resulting from relations, either directly or indirectly, with the government or any of its departments."

SENATOR BEIQUE, in advocating his motion, quoted the various statutes governing the independence of Parliament. He said he thought it was time the Senate should go farther and enact a rule which would prevent the raising of any question such as had been raised during the present session and would serve as a guide for members of the Senate.

Senator Smeaton White, Conservative, Montreal, thought Senator Beique's proposed rule did not apply to the case that was under consideration. It would look as if he had adopted the old threadbare, mouldy idea of drawing a herring across the trail, Senator White said he would like further information as to what was meant by family corporations. He asked if he included in family corporations the case of a man who owned newspapers. Such members as Rt. Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Hon. W. A. Buchanan and Hon. J. S. McLennan and himself, who owned newspapers, carried on business with the government in the usual way, and who had not violated the independence of Parliament. According to the rule he submitted, it appeared as if a special selection of certain people was being made. If this was the object, he thought Senator Beique should go farther and include the officers and members of law firms so they might be in company with newspaper owners.

Hon. W. B. Willoughby, Conservative leader in the Senate, thought it was not an appropriate time to press the motion. An unpleasant incident had occurred in the Senate and everybody knew what had happened in the Commons. The independence of Parliament Act was applicable to both Houses, and it was quite possible there would be concurrent action to deal with the rule. The Senate was in no temper to deal with the matter at the present time, he said, and Parliament was heading for an early prorogation.

BILL TALKED OUT

Ottawa, July 22.—A bill to incorporate the Service Loan and Finance Corporation was talked out in the private bill hour in the Commons yesterday evening. The bill met stiff opposition in the Commons on banking and commerce and was adversely reported on. It proposed to enable the company to make loans on personal security.

B.C. COASTAL SHIPS DEBATED IN COMMONS

Manion Says Railways Will Prosper When Good Times
Return to Canada

Ottawa, July 22.—Canada faces a serious but not hopeless railway situation, Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, told the Commons yesterday. If care, caution and economy were practiced by the management of the Canadian National Railways, Dr. Manion saw no cause for concern. With the exercise of prudence and wise management, the whole transportation situation would return to normal times. When prosperity returned to Canada, both the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific Railways would pay their way.

On the other hand, to emphasize the seriousness of the situation, the minister said gross revenues of the government road for the first six months of this year were $22,000,000 below the corresponding period in 1929 and $46,000,000 below the 1928 figures. The system's interest bill was $1,000,000 a week, "and it does not look as though the road will pay very much of this year." In 1930, the Canadian National failed by $30,000,000 to meet its interest charges, and the government was forced to advance that sum.

LENGHTY DEBATE
The debate arose when Hon. J. D. Chaplin, Conservative, Lincoln, Ontario, moved adoption of the report of the committee that revised the estimates of the Canadian National and its marine subsidiaries. Although the debate lasted all day, the report had not been adopted when adjournment came in the evening.

B.C. COAST SERVICES

Both the Prime Minister and Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, advocated one provision of the report which suggested duplication of service be stopped in connection with steamships in British Columbia waters.

EVENTS REVIEWED

Mr. King, referring to anxiety voiced by Premier Bennett as to the railway situation, said that feeling was no greater than his (Mr. King's) own when he took office at the end of 1921, and was confronted with the railway problem. At that time there were the Grand Trunk, the C.N.R. and the Great Northern Pacific Railways under three managements. The problem in brief had been whether there should be a monopoly with one road or government ownership competing with private ownership. The government of the day had decided in favor of competition between a publicly-owned and a privately-owned system.

In accord with the greater part of the report of the committee, Mr. King said he was in favor of the report of the committee, and was pleased it was unanimous. If the committee felt the service of certain ships should be discontinued by reason of the continual losses incurred on the Pacific Coast, he thought the report in that regard should be adopted, and he thought the committee was wise in its note of "caution."

HACKETT RENEWS ATTACK

John T. Hackett, Conservative, Stansfeld, Que., criticized the Canadian National yesterday. According to Premier Bennett, however, Hackett was for himself alone and was not representing the views of the government or of the Prime Minister himself.

It had been conclusively shown in Canada for the railway system of the country, said Mr. Hackett. With enormous annual increases in the railway's debt, the conclusion must be reached the management had failed in its task. Not a single venture in any branch of the railway's activity had shown a profit. It must be admitted, however, he added, personnel and operation of service had been elevated to a high plane of efficiency.

Canada had "killed the watch dog" when it was provided the auditor-general should not have supervision over the Canadian National finances, said Mr. Hackett. The board of directors appointed in connection with the system he regarded as a futility.

EULER'S VIEWS

Hon. W. D. Euler, Liberal, North Waterloo, Ont., said the report presented by the committee on the C.N.R. was unanimous and he was willing to accept it, although he would have desired it to be different in some respects.

Mr. Hackett's criticism was characterized as "most unfair" by J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg North Centre. He agreed the C.N.R. had gone too far in the line of hotels, but, if so, it had been done in an effort to compete with his business.

Mr. Woodsworth defended the special committee which reviewed estimates of the Canadian National. Did Mr. Hackett want the C.N.R. handed over to the C.P.R.? If so, why did not he come out and say so? he asked. He hoped the government was not in sympathy with the criticism.

It must always be remembered, the Labor member counselled, that the Canadian Pacific had been built through "enormous grants."

If there were any changes in salaries to be made the beginning should be "at the top," Mr. Woodsworth stated. He thought that salaries of officials of the C.P.R. should be published as well as those of the C.N.R.

Premier Bennett stated the member for Stansfeld (Mr. Hackett) had expressed his own personal views. He had not echoed the opinions of the government.

Since he had assumed office, the Prime Minister stated, no matter had given him more concern than the railway situation, and he did think, as he had frequently stated, that it was time that members studied the situation in all its ramifications. There were 10,000,000 people in the country and the railway facilities were beyond the requirements. A public enterprise had been acquired and this system was being maintained in competition with the private system. Everything had been done to advance the public system.

Mr. Bennett regretted to see a group construing discussion as adverse criticism of the publicly-owned system. He thought the member for North Waterloo (Mr. Euler) was correct when he said the report represented a compromise of opinions. It had been a source of gratification the committee had agreed on a unanimous report. Premier Bennett thought the people

London, July 22.—The London County Council yesterday decided to build a new road bridge over the River Thames at Charing Cross at a cost of $62,500,000, on condition the government would contribute 75 per cent of the cost.

The scheme includes transference of the present Charing Cross station, one of the key positions for passenger traffic to and from the continent, to the other side of the river. The western end of the Strand, incidentally, will be altered beyond recognition.

MOTION WITHDRAWN

Ottawa, July 22.—In view of the fact that Senator W. L. McDougald, Montreal, had appeared before the committee of the Commons investigating the Beauharnois project, the motion in the Senate for a special committee of that chamber to inquire into his relations with the project was withdrawn yesterday evening. The motion had been sponsored by Senator Hardy, Liberal, Ontario.

BEAUHARNOIS SHARE SYSTEM IS EXPLAINED

Ottawa, July 22.—The term "part-interests" referred to so often in the hearing of the committee of the Commons investigating the Beauharnois power project is used to describe the units of the syndicate which preceded the organization of the company. The first Beauharnois syndicate was formed on the basis of 5,000 part-interests. That syndicate was later reorganized into the Beauharnois power syndicate. The structure of the new syndicate was 30,000 part-interests, but only 25,000 were ever issued. Members of the first syndicate got two part-interests in the new syndicate for one in the old one.

In addition they were permitted to double their holdings in the new syndicate at $100 per unit. For example, a man holding 500 part-interests in the first syndicate received 1,000 such units in the second, and was permitted to buy 1,000 more at $100 each.

On December 17, 1929, when the company took over the second syndicate, the holders received about $150 per unit in cash and forty shares of class A stock.

Armed Forces Are Described as Police

Ottawa, July 22.—By concurring in the report of its industrial and international relations committee, the Commons yesterday endorsed the principle that expenditures on national defense are not in the interests of war. The committee had for consideration a resolution of Miss Agnes MacPhail, Progressive member for Southeast Grey, Ont. Besides concluding the Canadian militia force were actually in the nature of a police force, the committee found expenses in cadet training were "not for war."

Miss MacPhail's recommendation for professorships and scholarships in Canadian universities to promote peace, was adversely reported on, the committee deciding the Dominion should not bear the expense, particularly having regard to education being in the hands of the provinces under the British North America Act.

THE INCOME TAX PROPOSALS.

A CONSERVATIVE CONTEMPORARY describes Mr. Bennett's action in withdrawing his income tax proposals because it was charged by political opponents that the changes would benefit him and some of his rich friends, as an act of high courage, dictated by a fine sense of honor. It added that those who did not know the meaning of honesty would say his course disclosed weakness on his part.

The proposals which were withdrawn dealt with all incomes, small as well as large. They reduced taxation at both ends; that is to say, they increased the exemption for married persons from $3,000 to $3,500, thereby enlarging the number of those who do not have to pay the tax and who comprise a majority of the Canadian people. They reduced taxation on incomes up to $8,000, increased the rate on incomes ranging from $9,000 to $50,000, and considerably reduced taxation on incomes running from $75,000 to $1,000,000. Hence, the beneficiaries of the recent proposals would have been the recipients of the lowest incomes subject to taxation, and the highest, the increased rates being on the middle grade incomes.

The fact that the Prime Minister felt that it was incumbent upon him to change his course as a demonstration of his good faith carries no justification for his withdrawal of all of the proposals. The withdrawal, or better still, the amendment of the proposals affecting the group of incomes in which his own income falls, and for which reductions of taxation were provided, should have been sufficient for that purpose. Why should the recipients of incomes up to $8,000 be deprived of the benefits the proposals prescribed for them because his motives were misconstrued or misrepresented by his opponents?

In his capacity of Minister of Finance, the Prime Minister, in introducing his income taxation proposals, declared that they and the other forms of taxation he proposed were necessary to make up for loss of national revenue. That being so, they should have been pressed regardless of the criticism of his political opponents, since they in his opinion were in the public interest, and it is his government and not the opposition which is responsible for the administration of the country's affairs. The effect of his proposals upon his own income or business had nothing to do with the case as long as his motives were purely impersonal, as we believe they were. Obviously, if they were not disinterested in that sense they should not have been introduced.

Suppose, for the sake of argument, that next year Mr. Bennett decided to reduce the sales tax to its former level, and somebody on the opposition benches charged him with doing this because his own big establishment on the Ottawa River would benefit from the reduction—would he feel that he ought to withdraw the proposal? That would be ridiculous. Indeed, Mr. Bennett, being a man of big business, is bound to benefit proportionately with his fellow-countrymen from all measures introduced by him that may be to the country's advantage. In his present office public interest should be paramount in his mind over all other considerations, especially, as long as his own conscience is clear, over his own personal reaction to criticism.

THE BEST CITIZEN MEDAL

IN AWARDING TO MRS. R. P. BUTCHART the medal as an appreciation of fine citizenship, Victoria Post of the Native Sons and Daughters of British Columbia has made a choice which has the approval of the whole community. The incident recalls a similar distinction conferred upon Mr. Butchart for the same reason a few years ago by Victoria, when it made him a Free Man, thereby perpetuating a time-honored custom of the Old Country, and expressing, through the City Council, its recognition of Mr. Butchart's worth as a citizen. The only other Free Man of Victoria so far is Earl Willington, now Viceroy of India.

There are very few people who do not know Mrs. Butchart personally, and who have not enjoyed her charming hospitality. Indeed, so completely does her kindly personality pervade the magnificent gardens at Benvenuto that every visitor there feels a sense of acquaintance with her. The gardens are chiefly the product of her own love of the beautiful, not to speak of her practical handiwork, but the pleasure she has taken from its development, great though it has been, is not as keen as the pleasure she derives from the enjoyment she and her husband are able to afford to the public at large by these means.

The gardens at Benvenuto do more than appeal to lovers of floral beauty. They form an arresting demonstration of the fertility of our soil and the kindness of our climate. They emphasize the unsurpassed charm of this island as a place of residence, and it is common knowledge that they have been the most effective advertisement Greater Victoria has had in respect of these advantages. Apart, therefore, from the happy personal relationship Mr. and Mrs. Butchart have established with their fellow-citizens here, they have done very much to promote Victoria's material progress and to win distinction for it in the eyes of the world.

CANADIAN GOLD PRODUCTION

CANADA IS NOW THE WORLD'S SECOND largest producer of gold, according to a statement issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Second position has been held by the United States, but for 1930 Canadian production was greater than that of the United States, unless in the latter is included the output of the Philippine Islands. Canadian production of gold last year was 2,102,068 fine ounces, while that of the United States, not including the Philippine Islands, was 2,053,659 ounces. Production in the Philippine Islands amounted to 178,934 fine ounces. The largest producer of gold is, of course, the Union of South Africa, which in 1928 had a gold production of 10,354,264 fine ounces, or over 52 per cent of the world output.

The Canadian figures quoted above are the finally revised returns. The production of 2,102,068 ounces is valued at $43,453,601 on the basis of the standard price of $20.671834 per fine ounce. In 1929 Canadian production was 1,928,308 fine ounces with a value of $39,861,663. The greater part of the Canadian output comes from Ontario, which produced last year 1,736,012 fine ounces, valued at $35,886,552. Towards the Porcupine camp contributed 859,084 fine ounces, and the Kirkland Lake area 830,733 ounces. The balance of the Ontario output came from gold contained in ores in the Sudbury area and from miscellaneous sources. The Quebec production of 141,747 fine ounces included gold contained in blister copper made at the Noranda smelter and gold in bullion produced from ores mined at the Siscoe, O'Brien and Granada gold mines.

British Columbia had the second largest output of gold among the provinces of the Dominion, producing 164,331 fine ounces, compared with 154,024 ounces in the previous year. Increases occurred in alluvial mining, auriferous quartz mining and in the gold contained in blister copper produced. There was, however, a decrease in the amount of gold contained in base bullion and ores exported. Gold in Manitoba was derived from both sulphide and auriferous quartz ores, and at 23,189 fine ounces showed an increase over the production of 1929. Fine gold recovered from alluvial mining in the Yukon was less at 35,160 fine ounces, compared with 35,678 ounces during 1929. Silver-lead ores exported for treatment from the Yukon contained a small proportion of gold.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS

IF A PUBLICLY-OWNED UTILITY HAD involved itself in a mess as shocking as that in which the Beauharnois Company is shown by a committee of the House of Commons to have got into, in its relations with party politics, what a howl would have gone up from those quarters which see nothing good in government ownership of anything! If the Canadian National Railways, for example, had been shown up as a heavy contributor to party campaign chests there would have been a hue-and-cry from the critics of that system which would have been heard around the world.

Campaign fund scandals are ancient bits of history, not only in Canada but all over the world, and in every case large private corporations, hot-foot for public concessions, have been involved. From the Pacific Scandal, which upset the government of Sir John A. Macdonald in 1873, down to the present time, the circumstances have been very much the same. A few years ago we had sensational campaign fund disclosures in British Columbia involving private railroad companies, and more recently the charges involved liquor operations.

This sorry business will continue until Parliament and Legislatures enact such measures as will impose a drastic check upon it. Such legislation is in force at Washington and in many of the neighboring states, and it has had a wholesome effect, having resulted in the unseating of a number of senators and governors, and the imprisonment of a small army of exploiters. All that is necessary is the requirement that every contribution over a set moderate sum to party treasuries shall be published as it is received, with the name of the contributor, and drastic penalties, to be strictly enforced, should be prescribed for violation of such a law. This would reduce our roster of campaign fund scandals to a very considerable extent, if it did not eliminate them altogether.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

MOTOR CARS AND RAILWAYS
 The Toronto Telegram

If anyone imagines the passenger decrease on U.S. railways has not been impressive, it is necessary only to know that in 1929 1,234,862,049 passengers. That was a peak year. From that time to the present passenger traffic has decreased constantly. In 1928 the number of passengers carried had fallen to 70,327,447. In 1929 the decrease continued. Indeed, the traffic was smaller than in any year since 1909. The loss between 1920 and 1930 was 40 per cent. In 1920 passenger receipts amounted to $1,296,613,000 and this sum had fallen in 1929 to $740,000,000. The meaning of this is more understood if you chance to own railroad stocks or bonds.

BENEATH BUSINESS CYCLES
 By Roger Babson

There is one feature of the business situation which is very fundamental, namely, the attitude of the average man toward life. Hundreds of reasons are given as the cause of business depressions and hundreds of solutions are given for bringing about recovery. Thirty years' experience in the study of business conditions leads me to believe that there is only one fundamental cause and only one fundamental method of recovery. This is basically religious.

When people live normally and lead useful lives, business conditions are normal and there are no booms or depressions. When, however, people begin to forget their responsibilities and look primarily to profits, irrespective of the services rendered or the commodities given in exchange, the situation gets top-heavy. Finally, a smash follows. Conditions then decline to a basis which merely provides for the necessities of life. Gradually people "repent," realizing that progress cannot continue on the former short-sighted and unchristian policy. With this change of heart, manufacturers, merchants and wage-workers determine to give the public as much as possible, in materials and labor, rather than as little as possible. This new attitude is the beginning of a period of business improvement. When too many people think only of themselves and profits, irrespective of their fellow men and the service rendered, it is always possible to foresee a business collapse. When, however, fifty-one per cent of the people agree to the error of such a selfish programme and begin again to think of the other fellow, then business begins to improve.

Although I take no stock in the theory of a psychological basis for changes in business conditions, I do most heartily believe that there is religious basis for such change.

A THOUGHT

Loose Ends

Mr. Bennett does not go far enough—a veteran is troubled in spirit—and there are scandalous slings-on out our way.

By H. B. W.

THE SUBLIME action of Premier Bennett in scrapping the taxation policy of his government because someone somewhere suggested that he might benefit by it personally, opens up a vast and glittering field of possibilities. It may alter, indeed, the entire current of Canadian politics. I welcome it, therefore, even though, for the sake of the Prime Minister's personal feelings, the taxation policy has gone by the board and I, along with every other married man in Canada, must lose a $500 exemption under the income tax. I mean to say, that a small sacrifice indeed, and the loss of a national taxation policy is a mere trifle if the Prime Minister's feelings are saved, and his unknown critics forever silenced.

NO, I DO NOT feel that Mr. Bennett has gone too far, but not far enough. Obviously, he has only made a small and trembling start. He has withdrawn his taxation policy because someone said it would benefit him personally, but what of his other policies? Every line in his entire budget is supposed to benefit Canada, and if it does that, how is it fair to benefit Mr. Bennett as one of his rich friends? Citizens? To adhere to his high resolution Mr. Bennett must withdraw his budget or else plead that it did not benefit him because it benefited nobody. The latter plea would be easier to believe, but it would be rather embarrassing, in a way, for him to advance it.

WHEN YOU get right down to it, indeed, you find that any man of wealth like Mr. Bennett is affected personally by every profitable and useful act of the government, and if he abides by his recent decision he will be unable to engage in any profitable and useful act. Obviously, the high sense of honor calls not merely for the abolition of his taxation plans; a true patriot in such a position would anticipate call criticism by abolishing the whole government. Then no one could suspect him of anything.

SOME PEOPLE object to my recent innocent remarks concerning the situation in Europe, which is strange, since I pretended no knowledge on the subject and expressed no views. Anybody who fought with some distinction in the war and has since been elevated to high public office, came to me to-day, keenly aggrieved. He said that as a friend of mine he had expected something better and more intelligent. He could see nothing curious in it, and he said that the Allied nations had and has since several million casualties and most of their money to ruin Germany, and now were using all their resources to revive her. He seemed to think this was the most natural thing in the world.

"Don't you know," he said, "that historically and really the Germans are our natural allies? Our friends and our relations? Why shouldn't we help them? Next time there is a war, I hope we shall be fighting by their side." This rather took me aback. "Well, I said at last, very humbly and only to secure information, 'what, then, was your general purpose, object or idea of the last war?' He looked at me as if I had committed treason and I thought he would have some crushing reply; but this soldier who fought with distinction in the war could only say: "Well, to tell you the truth, I don't know." But I am sure he felt that somehow, in commenting on these matters at all, I was disloyal.

THERE ARE other aspects of life out this way at the moment, however, which I find much more interesting than Mr. Bennett or the situation in Europe. At the moment the little girl from next door is pre-occupied with a soldier who fought in the war. He is startingly white and resembles precisely the snout of a young porker. The little girl from next door, you see, has come over here to complain to me of the heat. Now this is curious, since the little girl has on a pair of bathing trunks, striped blue and white, with two small blue straps over her chunky shoulders. The rest of her body is hidden under a layer of dirt which was collected in a variety of places—part of it under my yellow transparent apple tree, part from the damp ground between my two rows of raspberries and the remainder from the rolling in my perennial border with her dog, the eminent Nipper. You could not believe that so much earth could adhere to a smooth human carcass. "Little bit dirty—not very bad," she admits with an unusual frankness.

ANYWAY, SHE wants to come into my house to get cool. This, of course, must be prevented at all costs, for she will ruin whatever furniture and whatever clothes she comes into contact with, and her invariable practice is to lie on all my chairs feet up. She has her feet utterly black and to climb up my legs like a little monkey. I have therefore devised the stratagem of giving her a pair of scissors and an old magazine so that she can remain on the lawn and cut pictures out to be pasted in a scrap book. True, they will never be pasted in a scrap book. They will be left on my lawn to blow all over my flower beds, where I shall have to gather them up with a labor and a agony of spirit. But it is better than having her inside in her present condition. She has started, therefore, to cut pictures out of the magazine. She comes back to my window every few minutes to show me the pictures and ask all about them. Why is the little boy eating ice cream with raspberries on it? Can she have some ice cream with raspberries on it? Is she a good girl? Why has the lady got on a bathing suit (pronounced "bathing suit," with unconscious truthfulness)? Why is the lady in the tooth-paste advertisement smiling like that, "cause she's going to get a twenty-twenty baby all her own maybe?"

BURN KIRK'S COAL

"DOES LAST LONGER"

BUT CUTTING out pictures, as you know, is a difficult and laborious job. The more she cuts out the hotter she becomes. "Until," to my great horror, she wriggles her shoulders out of the two blue straps, she jumps up and down, she kicks her legs and, behold, even the little striped bathing pants have disappeared. Such scandalous goings-on make it impossible to consider the affairs of the world with my customary judicial calm. But it is gratifying to note that, in a vast expanse of dirt, there is a clean white ring, completely around her, where the trousers used to be.

EXPRESS DOUBT OVER RAISING MUNICIPAL LOAN

Reeve Elrick Says Municipality Good Enough Security For Any Bank

Members of Council, School Board and Police Commission Hold Meeting

DOUBT AS TO the ability of the council to raise a loan from the Bank of Montreal to carry out the remainder of the municipality's work for the year, was expressed by Councillors A. Heald and A. Lockley at the Esquimalt Council meeting yesterday evening. Reeve James Elrick replied that, with the district as security, there would be little difficulty in raising the loan.

The matter was brought up at the close of the council meeting which followed a special session of the school board, police commission and council, attended by Reeve Elrick, Trustees Mr. James Lobster, Mrs. Sarah King, Major J. A. P. Crompton and T. A. Farley; S. A. Pomeroy, secretary of the board; Councillors A. A. Anderson, O. Brooker, C. H. Smith, T. H. Field and A. Heald; Police Commissioner James Painter, and G. H. Pullen, municipal clerk.

No statement was forthcoming from the school board, but it was understood the meeting considered steps towards retrenchment for the remainder of the year.

In the discussion after the council meeting, members again spoke of the necessity for rigid economy and possibility of cutting down on estimated expenditures. Councillor Smith reiterated the statement for publication that he and the members of the council should sacrifice their indemnities. Councillor Lockley stated the whole matter of expenditure would have to be brought under review before any cuts were made.

REGRETS NO CONCERT

TO THE EDITOR:—May I have space in your valued paper to express our regret to the citizens of Victoria in having to cancel the concert on Sunday afternoon, the 19th instant, due to the Fifth B.C. Coast Brigade C.A. being unable to provide for the concert in Beacon Hill Park as advertised, and would also like to thank Mr. J. UNIVERSITY FEES

TO THE EDITOR:—Noting recently the publication of an article in your paper stating that a young lady is to be added to the fees of the U.B.C., several questions have arisen in my mind.

Is the purpose of the U.B.C. limitation of pupils only or increase of funds? The article led me to think the former. If so, it appears to me there are better ways of limitation of students. It is no news that the wealthy college student is the smaller the chance of his or her being a credit to the college, or the college a real benefit to the student. The actual, downright hard worker in college is almost invariably the student whose ambition is spurred by necessity. The one who has plenty of time for the world's goods usually attends college for the purpose of having a jolly good time, do as little as possible and yet have the prestige of being a university student.

Now, the higher the fees are raised, the greater the proportion of this latter sort of student will attend. Any one can tell you the result—a lowering of the college's reputation and lessening of the college's benefit to the community.

Why not raise the academic qualifications for entry, also for passing from one year to the next? Just why should precious space in a college be occupied by the "all-play-and-no-work" sort, just because they have more money, when the able, earnest, earnest worthy folk anxious to fill those very seats?

COMMITTEE'S THANKS

TO THE EDITOR:—May we be privileged, through you, sir, on behalf of British Columbia's Diamond Jubilee Celebration Committee, to express our very heartiest appreciation and thanks to all those who in any way worked towards making the celebration a success, and to the others who co-operated in many ways with us, thus making our duties so much more pleasant and easier to perform. There were so many ladies and gentlemen working on the central and sub-committees, and taking part in the many items of our programme, etc., that space will not permit us to enumerate them, therefore we hope they will all accept this letter as a personal thanks to them for all they did in this commemorative celebration.

The committee regrets very much that a certain amount of confusion occurred in connection with the seating of ticket holders in the grandstand at the pageant. No blame for this is attached to the Biggan Company and Hubben & Company, who, out of courtesy to our committee, handled the advance sale of seats; nor really can blame be attached to anyone, as what was thought to be ample safeguarding of seats had been arranged by the pageant committee, but owing to the fact that several thousands of people entered the park without showing up of time, completely overwhelming the police and ushers, it became utterly impossible to protect all the reserved seats—this we deeply deplore.

A GRANDSTAND PLAY

TO THE EDITOR:—Now that the Jubilee celebrations are over I wonder if things couldn't have been improved upon in regard to the grandstand. I was among the crowd that was up there at 7.45 p.m., but found it impossible to get a seat. No grandstand, also standing room was at a premium. The management must have known that the grandstand accommodation at the Athletic Park would be very inadequate and should have planned accordingly. There is no doubt it was a thrilling spectacle for the privileged 2,000 or so that could see it, but what about the thousands that could not? Why were the dressing tents put in the centre of the field instead of the outside? Being in the position they occupied obstructed the view of all the crowd at the Cook Street entrance, and if some of the bigwigs who were in the grandstand could have only been behind the scenes and crying with the cold, unable to see anything to detract their minds from their sufferings, they would not have been so jubilant over the affair. Why was it not staged in the centre of the field and everyone charged admittance, say fifty cents for the grandstand and twenty-five cents for standing room? Even if there had been a parade once around the field, the unlucky ones would have been more satisfied, but, no, we were not allowed to see that. Ask the police who were holding the crowd back what they thought about it, and if I'm not speaking the truth, no, they were not. It was purely a grandstand play, and seems to have been put on purely for the benefit of the grandstand patrons. We, the citizens of Victoria, are getting used to this kind of stuff, but what about our visitors, some who have come at heavy expense, and no doubt only a few of them were lucky enough to get a seat in the grandstand. I think, Mr. Editor, we can honestly say that there is room for lots of improvement, and it is up to the papers and the authorities to see that everyone gets a square deal.

THE MOUSE TOWER

TO THE EDITOR:—In A.D. 968 or '69 there was a great famine in parts of Germany. According to the story Hatto, archbishop of Mainz, had gathered a quantity of grain in a tower on an island in the Rhine, near where the city of Bingen still is, and when the starving people came to him begging or claiming his grain he allowed them in his tower, and had the doors closed behind them and put the tower to fire. When the so entrapped villagers died out in their calamity the Bishop (according to the tradition) said: "The mice are squealing," or words to that effect. The story is taught children in the schools in Europe, and is supposed to teach them how ugly such lack of brotherhood is and how utterly unchristian such a behavior.

In the near thousand years that have since elapsed our western civilization has learned something, but by no means everything. Nobody, not even a potato or wheat wholesaler, nowadays will repeat the action, or the words, which history daubs that archbishop. But, as yet, we gather hundreds of millions of bushels of wheat, which cannot spoil, and rotting in the warehouses and let others go hungry and die by starvation (China) or (as lately reported by the papers) destroy 3,000 sacks of potatoes instead of using them to feed the hungry, for which there was ample opportunity last winter. Now I do not impute that the growers or the holders of those potatoes had that end in view, nor seem it reasonable that those growers or holders would have been obliged to sacrifice the apparent wealth they thought they had gathered, because of a depression in for which they were not personally responsible. But it is evident that in a well ordered state, and in well ordered communities such things are not to occur. There was evidently lack of insight and lack of co-ordination both as regards the growers as well as the holders or distributors. It may be extremely difficult to control the production side of crops, the more so where it is impossible to say beforehand whether a year will produce abundantly or not, and, being dependent on the rainfall. But once produced it should be possible to make a fairly accurate estimate of the consumption, these days where the population is exactly known, and where the governments have it in their hand to prevent importation or promote exportation in case of surpluses or the reverse in case of shortages.

The deplorable destruction of these 3,000 sacks of potatoes become more irritating in a time where hundreds of families have struggled through the winter months on a very meagre fare, and where a little more administrative foresight and a good deal more of Christian charity would have diverted the now waste food into appreciative channels. The present course of affairs is unhappily born on the mills of the communists, and capitalism could not have chosen a weightier contribution to the propaganda of the communists than this wasteful destruction of food as reported in your valuable paper.

But what is the use of wasting time over spilled beans? Evidently the facts contain in themselves a lesson. Repetition must be prevented. It seems that we might go a little step ahead if we made a law which would prevent a recurrence of such an unhappy condition of affairs. It seems to me that a market branch of the government should be entitled to obtain reports on hoarding of foodstuff with punishments for non-reporting, that statistics so gathered should bring the government the necessary information of existing conditions and, if the cabinet so judged, should empower the government to seize surpluses and distributing them, at the cost of the general revenue of the country, to such institutions, hospitals, orphanages, relief departments, etc., as would benefit by it at the right moment. This evidently would be a far less expensive way, and a far more practically Christian way of disposing of surplus material, than the throwing 3,000 bags of potatoes on the city dump, which is like the capitalist giving the hungry man a blow below the belt. The verbal donkey does not hit twice the same stone. Should our government not try at least to be as clever as a donkey, and where it has missed and timely interference this weapon itself with sufficient power to prevent a repetition of a similar mishap in years to come? It is to me that we should profit by experience if we made a strongly v demand from the government for a policy, and it seems to me the government so doing would certainly win in popularity. Even greedy-bers could only applaud; how much the Christians and the beneficiary such a more fatherly policy.

VAUDEVILLE AIR WHEN AIMEE'S SON MARRIED

Extra Police Needed to Handle Crowds at Temple Ceremony Yesterday

Los Angeles, July 22.—Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, joined her son, Rolf, in marriage last night to Lorna Dee Smith, of Alva, Okla., before an audience of 5,500 at Angelus Temple, headquarters of the "four square gospel" church.

Some 4,000 persons standing outside the temple listened to a radio broadcast of the ceremony, which was preceded by a rather spectacular two-hour programme, including a touch of vaudeville, light opera and drama.

As early as yesterday noon, crowds began to gather in efforts to get choice seats and at 5 p.m. police already on hand were forced to call for help to manage the multitude of the curious and "four square" faithful.

Roberta Semple Smith, daughter of the evangelist, and her newly acquired husband, William B. Smith, former ship's purser, who were to have been bridesmaid and best man, were withdrawn to-day from the wedding party list. Mrs. McPherson said the programme had been "arranged around the four square idea," and that since Smith is not identified with any of the four temple departments, it "was impossible to place him in the group." It was understood when Smith came here that he would enter the Temple work, but he recently got a job bookkeeping for an automobile concern.

DOMINION DAY HELD IN JAPAN

Canadians at Tokio Attend Legation Garden Party in Celebration

Tokio, July 2. (By Mail).—Dominion Day was celebrated here yesterday with a garden party at the Canadian legation, presided over by Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, Canadian Charge d'Affaires, and Mrs. Keenleyside, assisted by G. S. Patterson, president of the Canadian Association of Tokio and Yokohama, and other officers of the association.

The garden party was attended by T. M. Snow, British Charge d'Affaires, and Mrs. Snow, and other members of the British Embassy staff, the staff of the Canadian legation, and many members of the Canadian and British communities of Tokio and Yokohama.

In Yokohama there was an enthusiastic luncheon gathering at noon at the Yokohama United Club, at which Canada was toasted, the proposal being made by Kenneth Kirkwood, second secretary of the Canadian legation.

Mr. Kirkwood delivered a brief address in which he explained the meaning of Dominion Day to guests of other nationalities, and told something about the history and remarkable progress of Canada since the original Dominion Day.

Glorifying Yourself

Applying a wax depilatory to your arms or legs before the old saying, "It's as easy as wax." For it is the hardest way to rid your skin of superfluous hair, but it also is one of the most satisfactory ways.

The reason for this is that wax literally pulls the hairs out, by the roots! Wax is an epilatory, rather than a depilatory.

Take some time out of your day and settle down to doing this highly necessary business properly. If you decide to use wax.

First you melt the wax, according to directions that come with it. Then you spread it on the back of a spoon, not all over the portion you are working on, but rather like a map of several countries with boundary lines here and there. These boundary lines should be wide enough to allow you to take hold of the wax when it hardens and lift it off. That is why you can't spread it on all-over fashion.

Have your edges thick. You'll need this to get a good lift on the rest.

Spread the wax on in the direction that the hair grows. Pull it off in the opposite direction. When the wax is dry, pull it off quickly, like adhesive tape. If you are putting wax on your upper lip, begin in the centre of the lip right under the nose and spread the wax down from the top, in a line that runs out to the corners of the lip. The hairs usually grow across the lip, so you can get the hairs out better by putting the wax from the top down.

If you have any hesitancy about trying your own lip, get some beautician you have confidence in to apply it for you. It usually is more successful than doing it yourself.

Before you use wax depilatory, have the surface thoroughly clean and very dry. Also, spritz talcum lightly over the area before you put the wax on. Use some antiseptic liquid application afterward, as with all depilatories, and put on cold cream to soothe the skin, leaving it on for a half hour, if you can spare the time.

You can save your wax and use it again. For, said to say, you'll probably need it. Hairs do grow back again in three or four days, but they do not grow quite so quickly after an application and you can repeat the wax when needed.

This is no major operation. It takes only a comparatively little time. It doesn't hurt any more than pulling off an adhesive plaster hurts. And you will be joyful at the smooth surface found beneath the wax.

"PRETTIEST GIRL" OF 1922 HAS NOT MARRIED YET

Columbus, July 22.—Nearly a decade ago she was adjudged the prettiest girl in the United States and yet she has never married.

Mary Katherine Campbell of Columbus, crowned "Miss America" at Atlantic City in 1922 and 1923—the only girl ever to receive that title for two successive years—says the reason she hasn't married is because she's never been in love.

"Maybe it's because I've done so much travelling," Miss Campbell says. "I've never made the sort of friendships that might lead to matrimony. I don't believe in marrying unless a couple are deeply in love."

This former beauty queen reverses many traditions concerning "Miss Americas."

She doesn't smoke or use cosmetics or even take a tiny drink.

She never diets or worries about keeping slender.

She's never been in motion pictures and has no ambition to go to Hollywood.

She's sorry she won those beauty contests.

The reason Miss Campbell regrets winning the "Miss America" title is because this distinction brought such a flood of publicity she's never since been able to live her own life as she wanted.

"Every time anything about me appears in the newspapers," she says, "I receive a lot of telephone calls. It makes me a marked girl. If my appearance and conduct are not perfect in every detail I am reminded of it by friends who are told by other friends, and so on."

After winning the beauty title at Atlantic City in 1922 she was only

FALL STYLES TO SET WOMEN ALL UNDULATING

Satins to Rule, in Snaky Fashions of Vampish Theda Bara Days

Smart Woman to Look Like Inverted Triangle, Tapering Downwards

New York, July 22.—No moratorium has been declared in luxurious fashions for the forthcoming fall, judging by the ninety-one models unfurled at the Astor by the Garment Retailers of America, before 1,500 spectators. The sumptuous satins, furs and velvets hoisted on beauteous mannequins as a flaunt on the part of leading couturiers against debts, depressions and declines, indicate no tendency toward sackcloth and ashes.

Velvets predominated. They were shown for every purpose, from sports costumes to wedding gowns. With fabrics so soft and clingy, the new modes may be described as snakey. Women hardly seem to walk in their clothes. They undulate. Feather boas are worn for evening, sponsored by Bruck Weism, in delicious pastel colors. Vampish dresses of the era marked by Theda Bara are in evidence. But along with their wicked daringness comes a quaint sedateness.

Satins for evening seem to be the rule. The dulcinea fashionable the past few seasons is yielding to lustrous fabrics once more. Four frocks imported from Goupy, Chanel, Patou and Lelong were of shimmering tulle. Evening wraps are of velvet, slipper length and heavily furled. Evening frocks touch the heel. Naive pink is the evening frock color, but there is little that is naive about the bare backs, molded bosoms and gashed skirts that slit to the knees when walking.

To look smart, a woman this season should resemble an inverted triangle, with the wide line across the shoulders, and the rest of the silhouette tapering off toward the knees and ankles. Soft, draped sleeves; tight straight skirts and the beautiful, though hard-to-wear Empress Eugene hat—these are essential to faithful followers of fashion.

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
AS TOLD BY MRS. BARTON

So many children have odd little habits of jerking their shoulders or twitching an eye and it worries their mothers to death.

"Mary is so nervous," says Mary's mother, "that we have to be very careful of her. The slightest thing sets her to twitching. I always know when she is upset or working too hard. If she doesn't get over it soon I'll have to take her to a doctor."

Perhaps she does take her to a doctor if it is her shoulder or to an oculist, if it is her eye. The doctor outlines a code of correct living, air exercise, diet and plenty of sleep, or the oculist may decide that Mary needs glasses and they are duly fitted to place.

In many cases it is true that the child benefits by the doctor's programme or by the oculist's prescription, but it may be that Mary goes on jerking or twitching, just as she did before.

Then her mother makes up her mind that she has a very delicate child, accepts the inevitable, and by and by comes to talk about it, because her daughter has forgotten it too. The jerks have passed into limbo and everybody is happy.

OFTEN ONLY HABITS

There is a rather long explanation to these habits, spasms, but briefly I will say that they belong in the class of almost any nervous habit, are rather more a symptom of mind than health or nerves, and merely one more bid the child makes to get a bit of sympathy and attention.

No, not deliberately, for hundreds of lovely children do it. It starts consciously and soon grows into a reflex action. He does not realize he is doing it once it gets a good start. Like all habits it is quick to start and slow to stop.

Oddly enough body jerking seems to be caused in the first place by some uncomfortable part of the clothing—too tight clothes, a fold some place that irritates, an uncomfortable hat, a strap that binds, or too much wool that causes itching, it is claimed will start the habit.

Long after the cause is removed, the after-effects will go on, because in the meantime the small mind has discovered something unconsciously, of course. It has discovered that the family makes a great to-do about that itching process, worries over it, sympathizes and talks of doctors.

And it is a great alibi. "Mary can't study too long. I must write a note to her teacher. Mary can't wash the dishes—she mustn't get too tired, she'll start jerking."

But if Mary is quite well, I shouldn't worry too much. I just wouldn't talk about it before her, or notice it or say she is nervous. That's bad. And don't keep calling attention to it by saying, "Don't." That won't do one bit of good.

GIRL FRUSTRATED BANDIT'S PLANS

English Planter's Daughter at Nicaragua Saved U.S. Marines From Ambush

San Pedro, Cal., July 22. — Sheila Elizabeth Potter, daughter of a wealthy English coffee planter at Matagalpa, Nicaragua, arrived at the harbor here yesterday from Corinto and told how she had frustrated an attempt of the notorious bandit, Sandino, to lead United States marines into ambush.

Since this adventure, she said, she has remained in Matagalpa under protection of the United States forces, fearing an attempted reprisal from Sandino. She came to California to visit relatives and friends in San Diego.

A party of fifteen men came to her father's plantation several weeks ago and were given food by her and her mother, Miss Potter said. During the meal, she said, she overheard whispered plans to kidnap her and draw marines into pursuit. She related that she recognized Sandino from the conversation and that she and her mother seized an opportunity to flee on horseback to Matagalpa and warn the marines.

The bandits had fled when a marine detachment dashed back. The plantation was ransacked, however, she said.

North Vancouver, July 22.—Brilliant and spectacular cricket was played at the second day of the North Shore cricket week when Victoria won from the home team by a high-scoring game, featuring some great hitting by both teams. Victoria paid the North Shore tournament a compliment by riding over a very strong eleven, including four of the provincial team and Lieut. Phillimore of M.S. Dragon, who gave a great exhibition with the willow by coming an even century not out.

After the toss, Victoria sent in I. McKee and they added 100 runs for the first wicket. With Phillimore and Reg Wenman, and they got 50 for the first wicket. With Phillimore and Reg Wenman, and they got 50 for the first wicket. With Phillimore and Reg Wenman, and they got 50 for the first wicket.

TILICUMS NEED WIN OVER ELKS

Must Take Game This Evening to Retain Chance of Entering Ball Play-offs

Unless the Tillicums nick the league-leading Elks in this evening's senior amateur ball game at the Royal Athletic Park, their chances of entering the play-offs will be as scarce as hen's teeth. The Tillicums, after a brave start at the beginning of the season, have been slipping and will virtually pass out of the play-off picture unless they come through tonight.

The Elks, however, are figuring on giving them another bump on the floor of the Royal Athletic Park in the league standing, and still smarting from their defeat at the hands of the Eagles last week, will be out in strength for this evening's encounter.

Jiminy Danglefield will go to the mound for the antlered crew, while "Jock" Stewart will start for the Tillicums. The fixture will start at 6:15 o'clock.

Tillicums made a good showing against the Sons of Canada in their last appearance, but took it on the chin in the tenth when Lloyd Cann smacked out a homer for the Canadians.

Leo Dandurand, manager of the Montreal Driving Club which operated the track here, Skirt, owned by R. B. Jackson, was successful Monday. Delormier has ended its existence, dating back to 1902 and almost immediately streets will be driven through it, the property being broken up into building lots.

Seattle Indians Sign Rudy Kallio

Seattle, July 22.—President Bill Klepper, of the Seattle Indians, yesterday announced the signing of Rudy Kallio, former Portland pitcher, on a salary agreement which he refused to disclose. Kallio, who played with the Indians for three seasons, was unable to get going with Portland this year and was released Saturday.

At the end of last season a couple of Kallio's pay cheques from the Indians bounced back, and Kallio considered himself a free agent. Over Klepper's protest he took his case to Commissioner Landis, who upheld him.

Portland signed him, giving a $3,000 bonus, but he was released Saturday.

San Francisco, July 22.—Cary Kamanian, Fresno, Cal., used his hammer and saw to win the third and deciding fall from Dick Raines, El Paso, Texas, and finish a fast bout.

Kamanian took the first fall from the Texan in twenty-five minutes with a flying tackle. Raines came back to take the second fall in eight minutes with a reverse headlock. Eleven minutes later the former Stanford football player whirled Raines around with his hammer-throw hold and finally pinned his shoulders to the mat. Kamanian weighed 210 and Raines 212.

Other results.—Dr. Karl Sarpolis, Cleveland, 215, won from Tony Felice, New York, 215, in nineteen minutes when the latter was disqualified for slugging. "Hoot" Herrick, Oakland, 195, threw Frank Schell, 198, Houston, Texas, with a flying tackle in eighteen minutes; Jack Rogers, Oakland, 220, minutes; and Wally Rusk, Reno, 190, after eight minutes of wrestling when Rusk was disqualified for slugging.

TWO CANADIAN GRAPPLERS TO BATTLE HERE

Jack McLaughlin Will Meet Jean Tremblay, Montreal, Here Saturday

French-Canadian Has Fine Record; Jim London Throws Giant Russian

Two Canadian wrestlers will appear in the main event of Saturday night's wrestling card at the Tillicum gymnasium, according to an announcement to-day. Local promoters have succeeded in matching Jack McLaughlin, Vancouver's star middleweight, with Jean Tremblay, French-Canadian star from Montreal. In the five-round semi-windup Sammy Vangler will meet Joe Gardner.

Tremblay will be making his debut in a local ring and should prove a good match for McLaughlin. The latter has been winning all his recent matches, and is anxious to take the eastern boy into camp.

The first of the preliminary bouts will commence at 8:45 o'clock.

Baltimore, Md., July 22.—Jim London yesterday evening successfully defended what he calls his world heavyweight wrestling championship, by throwing Kola Kwaransi, Russian challenger, in fifty-three minutes with what experts described as an "unconscious holds." London weighed 200 pounds and Kwaransi 215. The gate was $3,450.

London, the aggressor most of the time, finally wrapped his arms about the neck of his opponent and applied pressure, until Kwaransi's shoulders sank to the mat.

Boston, Mass., July 22.—Sandoz Sabor, 204, Hungary, was declared the victor in last evening's featherweight bout at the Boston Garden when Tiny Roebuck, 240, former Hawell, Indian football player, disabled himself by diving through the ropes. Roebuck was trying to put over a flying tackle and Sabor side-stepped him.

Dick Shikat, 214, Philadelphia, threw Wally Woods, 225, of Virginia, with a body lift and slam in 50 seconds. Jimmy McMillan, 214, Chicago, threw Taro Miyake, 195, Japanese jiu jitsu artist, with a flying tackle in 14:45.

Camden, N.J., July 22.—Joe Banack, who claims the light-heavyweight championship of the world, defeated Joe Montana yesterday evening in 1 hour 4 minutes 3 seconds.

A body slam and leg lock were used. Going for a second fall the men tossed each other for 24 minutes 57 seconds without either being pinned. Under the law the bout was then terminated.

San Francisco, July 22.—Cary Kamanian, Fresno, Cal., used his hammer and saw to win the third and deciding fall from Dick Raines, El Paso, Texas, and finish a fast bout.

NORTH SAANICH TAKES SECOND HALF HONORS

Taking advantage of every break in the latter innings, North Saanich Service Club walloped the Navy, 11 to 6, in a sudden death final for the championship of the second half of the Progressive Football League at Central Park yesterday evening. The winners will meet the View Royals in the deciding series for the league title.

Almost 300 enthusiasts watched the fixture, which saw Ed Sandberg twirling in fine form for the Saanich boys.

TEAMS FIGHT CLOCK TO WIN O.C. CRICKET

Yorkshire and Gloucester Score Thrilling Victory; W. Hammond Stars

Hampshire Beats Somerset; Surrey-Lancashire Match Is Ruined By Rain

London, July 22.—Cricket, where teams fought to the close and won in thrilling finishes, was produced in England yesterday when Yorkshire beat Nottinghamshire at Nottingham, and Gloucester won from Derbyshire at Chesterfield.

Nottingham made 204 runs in their first innings, and when Yorkshire had scored 204 runs for six wickets, they declared. Nottingham were dismissed in their second innings for the small total of 95, largely owing to the fine bowling of Robinson. Nottingham lost their last five wickets for only 16 runs. After lunch, Hampshire required 63 runs to win Yorkshire knocked them off with the loss of only one wicket.

Wally Hammond starred for Gloucestershire with the bat and C. W. L. Parker with the ball. Derbyshire were dismissed in their first innings for 121 and Gloucestershire's first innings total of 217 with 210. Gloucestershire scored 191 in their second innings, of which Hammond got 81. Derbyshire required 218 to tie, but Parker was too good for them, taking six wickets for 64 runs, and Gloucestershire won by 16 runs.

Hampshire beat Somerset at Bourne-mouth by four wickets, scores being Somerset, 119 and 192; Hants, 191 and 121 for six wickets (Brown 51).

Sussex VICTORS

Sussex were victors over Leicester at Brighton by 154 runs. Sussex made 165 and 265 runs for six wickets declared, and Leicester 66 and 170.

Warwickshire defeated Northamptonshire at Peterborough yesterday by an innings and 70 runs. Scores were: Warwick, 328; Northants, 174 and 82.

The match between Surrey and Lancashire at the Kennington Oval was abandoned when rain made play impossible yesterday. As neither side completed their first innings, the two counties take four points each in the championship table.

GOOD MATCHES IN ESQUIMALT NET CHAMPIONSHIPS

Gordie Scott Defeats "Skipper" McVane in Feature of Yesterday's Play

The veteran "Skipper" McVane's 6-4, 3-6 defeat by Gordie Scott, young J.B.A.A. net player, featured yesterday's men's singles play in the Esquimalt tennis championships. Scott's victory was well-earned and places him as one of the favorites for the title.

With a number of matches decided yesterday and a good many more being fought out to-day, the annual tournament is well on its way to the closing rounds, and some close matches are expected. Eight matches in all were contested in the men's singles, which has a large entry list, and play also progressed in women's singles, men's doubles and mixed doubles.

The all-naval men's doubles between West and Gleave and Cox and McDonald was captured by the former team in three good sets. Miss Welch won the sole women's singles fixture from Miss Elkington, 6-4, 6-3.

Results follow: WOMEN'S SINGLES: Miss Welch won from Miss Elkington, 6-4, 6-3.

MEN'S SINGLES: McConnell won from V. Hicks, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1.

Bain won from Gleave, 7-5, 6-1. Marion won from Porter, 6-2, 6-2. A. Wright won from Cox, 6-0, 6-2. Scott won from McVane, 6-4, 6-3. Faurace won from Youson, 7-5, 6-0. Butler won from Poynts, 6-3, 6-3. Smith won from Bull, 6-3, 6-2.

The RECORD SPEAKS for ITSELF

A record made and a record held is indeed a record worth while. Turret's record for popularity with Canadian smokers is one which was established years ago and one which has been on the increase ever since.

After all, nothing can replace good, honest tobacco; grown and ripened right out in the field under nature's own sunlight—nothing artificial about that—and the high quality is

READY TO GIVE UP INDEMNITY

Councillor Heald Tells Esquimalt Municipal Body He Is Willing to Make Sacrifice

Voicing his willingness to forfeit his annual indemnity and to return that part of it which he had already received for 1931, Councillor Albert Heald yesterday evening raised the question of having the Esquimalt Council cut down or sacrifice altogether its honorariums at a meeting in the Municipal Hall.

The suggestion, made following the endorsement of a letter from the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, urging employers in the municipality to exert their influence in having men on regular payrolls quit outside jobs in order to help those without employment, was left for further consideration.

With the exception of an isolated case, the members of the council stated they knew of no men holding two positions until they considered their own case, which, technically speaking, fell in that category.

"The matter applies to all of us," said Councillor Alex. Lockley, referring to the indemnities.
"I'm perfectly willing to forego my indemnity for the remainder of the year and to forfeit what I have already received," Councillor Heald stated.

Councillor T. Headfield reminded the body that the letter was a circular communication sent out to all employers on the lower island, urging them to oppose a man holding two positions.

"If we have any full-time employees occupying remunerative outside positions, we should ask them to refrain from holding onto the two posts," said Councillor Lockley, adding "the move is simply one to spread work around."

Cold Orange Juice
Keep your oranges in the ice box and you won't need to dilute the juice with able on hot mornings.

WHY EAT ROMAN MEAL IN SUMMER?

Why? For the same reason that one eats fruit. Both are alkaline and alkalinize the blood, which keeps one fit on hottest days.

Roman Meal is the only alkaline grain food, because it is a quarter flaxseed. It also moves the bowels freely, preventing absorption of bowel poisons that depress and weaken on hot days.
It need not be eaten hot. It eat it uncooked, as per recipe on package, all the year round, which accounts for my youthful strength and endurance at seventy-two. It can also be served as icy-cold House-O, etc. (recipe on package), or as cold porridge with preserved or jellied fruit and cream or "cream substitute." Hot or cold, it is alkaline and peeps one up on hot days.

TRUSTEES MAY EXPROPRIATE SCHOOL SITE

Title to Carey Road Site Causes Dispute Between
Saanich and J. W. Rowland

The Saanich School Board yesterday evening unanimously decided to initiate expropriation proceedings, if necessary, to promptly secure from J. W. Rowland title to eight acres on Carey Road, and an added strip of thirty feet along the 714 feet of the western boundary of the tract, to be the site of the new eight-room urban high school.

A plan prepared by F. G. Aldous, B.C.L.S., signed by Mr. Rowland, had been refused registration because Saanich had officially objected. The northeast boundary shown would not allow width of sixty feet for Carey Road and created a four-foot jog at the northeast corner of the proposed school property.

Mr. Rowland had contested the municipality's right to more than fifty-six feet and had asserted that Carey Road was originally only forty feet wide. He had suggested that, if he were compelled to rectify the road boundary, he be compensated. The value of the strip was only $42.
Mr. Aldous informed the trustees that a number of plans filed at the Land Registry showed Carey Road to be straight. It was the duty of Mr.
Rowland to have his plans accepted by the municipality before he decided properly to the board, he advised.

Chairman Hobbs pointed to the lack of time for negotiations. He favored conceding Mr. Rowland's views and would also have allowed straightening of the road, the board standing by the loss in area of the site. The legality of such a course was doubtful, however.

Trustee Tomes pointed out that the board had made no definite agreement to purchase from Mr. Rowland, but he knew of no other area in the district equally suitable. "Have we done all we can, as reasonable men, to settle this? I would suggest we notify Mr.
Rowland that if we have not his agreement within ten days we will proceed to expropriate. Such a course will bring him to a prompt settlement.
If anyone will make a resolution to that effect I will support it. I will not budge from that attitude, I would rather resign from this board," he said.

Trustee W. S. Thorpe preferred a shorter period be given for reply and also considered that eight acres at the corner of Quilicum and Carey Roads would be preferable. He moved that action to expropriate be initiated if no acceptance were filed with the board by noon on Thursday. His motion was that Mr. Rowland should agree to adjust his Carey Road boundary to the satisfaction of the council at his own expense, and to deed to the board eight acres, together with a strip of thirty feet along the western boundary of the proposed school area.
The thirty feet had been offered by Mr. Rowland as a gift at the time the agreement was made to purchase eight acres at $200 per acre. The motion was seconded by Trustee Tomes and passed unanimously.

Trustee Briggs later suggested that the eight acres to be acquired would be insufficient to provide playing fields. A football field would require two acres. Trustee Tomes protested against purchase of more land, asserting that the ratepayers would be adversely affected. The matter was allowed to lapse in view of the status of the negotiations.

KEATING SITE

The board ordered completion of purchase of the Butler property on Keating Cross Road, on which the Keating high school is being built. Mr.
Aldous reported that, because the improved road was not located centrally on the right of way, the tract purchased was only 2.39 acres instead of 2.50 acres.

PRELIM, JUNIOR PASS LISTS OUT

Department Examinations For First and Second Year High School Grades Announced

Fair Average Maintained By Students in Various Centres Throughout Province

Announcement of successful candidates in the June examinations conducted by the Department of Education for students of Grades IX and X, preliminary and junior years in high school, made late yesterday, showed a fair average. Of 247 boys and girls throughout the province, who sat for Grade IX tests, ninety-four passed, thirty-one were given supplements and 119 were granted partial standing. In the second year, fifty-nine passed without conditions, twenty were given standing with supplements and seventy-five secured partial credits. In all 156 students were candidates in this class.

Those who took the department's examinations were pupils of schools which were not entitled to set their own examinations in these grades.

Students granted supplements or standing in four or more subjects in the June examinations and who satisfy their principal by oral or written examinations given at the opening of school in September that they have gained a fair standing of proficiency in the subjects in which they failed in June, may be promoted by the principal to the next grade without further departmental examinations.

Control of Puerperal Infection
Reduces Childbirth Mortality

Education, Improved Hospital Conditions, Higher Standard of Living Combat Disease of Motherhood

By DR. MORRIS FISHER

Among the saddest of diseases to occur to mankind is the death of a mother from infection during childbirth. This condition, scientifically called puerperal septicemia, has disturbed the minds of medical men for years. Methods have been developed for preventing infection in childbirth which seem to be able to control the condition in the vast majority of cases. Attempts have been made to disseminate this knowledge among physicians, midwives and prospective mothers, but for some reason rates have not seemed to decline very rapidly.

For seven years vast sums of money have been spent in the United States under legislation which provided for the use of government funds for this purpose. Unfortunately the money spent does not seem to have influenced greatly the control of puerperal sepsis.

Recently Dr. G. E. Harmon of the Western Reserve University has analyzed the deaths from this cause in the United States for the period from 1922 to 1927, inclusive. The figures show that there certainly has been no tendency for the rates to decline in the city white, city colored, or rural colored of the population. Among white people living in the country the rates seem to have had a slight tendency to decline, but in view of the shortness of the period studied this is not believed to have much significance.

There seems to be no doubt that when women give birth to children in hospitals under well controlled conditions and when the childbirth is attended by a competent physician who understands thoroughly the methods of prevention of puerperal infections, the rates can be greatly reduced. Unfortunately the vast majority of women do not give birth to children under such optimum conditions. There is reason to believe that extension of education and the gradual development of hospitals throughout the country will eventually provide for the care of an increasing number of cases under improved conditions, but it hardly seems likely that at any time in the next century will the vast majority of cases of childbirth be so provided for.

Certain conditions of disease are intimately associated with economic conditions. People living in damp cellars, people who are not provided with sufficient fuel and food, suffer from conditions which, of course, do not affect those who are well provided for. This is especially true of women in childbirth whose children are born under filthy conditions, are likely to suffer in a considerable number of cases with puerperal infection. The distribution of pamphlets explaining these facts to the poverty stricken and to the midwives is helpful from an educational point of view, but it is hardly likely to do a great deal in lowering the incidence of the condition or the death rate.

Nevertheless the yth thye thye that

ON WINGS OF MERCY

Aviation joined with medical science in acts of mercy when two men, stricken in far-apart sections of the country, were rushed by plane to Walter Reed Hospital in Washington. Though an army ambulance plane, shown at right as it landed at the capital, made a swift flight from Fort Bliss, Tex., with Private Olaf Nelson, operations by capital doctors failed to save the life of the soldier who choked on two gold teeth which he swallowed while eating breakfast. At left is shown Captain Guy B. Gale, stricken with a lung infection while at Skowhegan, Me., being removed in a stretcher at Mitchell Field, Long Island, from a plane en route to Washington, where he was to be given special treatment.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)
Winnipeg, July 22.—Wheat market was dull and featureless to-day. Prices dragged about 1/2 cent lower, with some liquidation in evidence as most of the local crowd went home last night and received no encouragement in the cables, export business at the general news. At the extreme dip the market was into the daily bid for about 1/2 cent and some buying against these lifted the market out of the range, but there was no real business.
News from London was not comforting as the nations cannot agree on the assistance that is to be offered Germany. Further meetings are to be held in Germany but it would seem that Great Britain will have to carry the load with the assistance of the United States.
There was only moderate demand for cash wheat with offerings not pressing. Spreads were mostly unchanged, although a few tough grades were worth 1/2 cent better than the previous closing spreads. Exporters confirmed no business of any account. There was a little better feeling in the flour situation as some small orders have been received recently and there are further inquiries in the market. Winnipeg futures closed 1/2 cent lower. Coarse grains—These markets were fairly steady but trading was very light and featureless with offerings small. There appeared to be some short covering in July barley which was strong. There was no export business reported and the domestic business was confined to the odd cars. Oats closed unchanged to 1/2 cent lower. Barley 1/2 cent higher and rye 1/2 cent lower.

This market continues quiet and featureless with prices moving lower and closed 2 1/2 cent lower.

Liverpool due 1/2 cent higher based on Winnipeg.

The Melody Girl

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

(Copyright, 1931, by NEA Service)

Irene had a habit of shrugging, both mentally and physically. She shrugged aside what reproaches her conscience urged upon her in this matter of Tommy turning his back upon higher education for her sake.

She had promised to marry him if he would accept his uncle's offer to take over the management of Hoffman's Motion Picture Palace as a permanent job.

Mr. Hoffman had induced Irene to place this condition upon her consent by bribery. She said Tommy would, as had said, come to live with him and the Hoffman house was an attractive dwelling. Aunt Emma's sister, Ernestine, who had been keeping house for him, would be going home soon. She expected to take a lot of her sister's things with her but he would see that they were left. They were old-fashioned things and he understood people were making a fuss over such things at the present time.

He need not have urged further. Right there Irene made up her mind. What envy it would excite in Beryl to see her among the Hoffman heiresses. Irene thought. She remembered Beryl had once said she hoped Mrs. Hoffman would let her just one piece of the Lowestoft. Of course Mrs. Hoffman hadn't done anything of the kind.

Irene decided to give a luncheon for Beryl, bringing the Lowestoft from the china closet and serving her food on it just as though it were ordinary ware. She was planning the meal even as Mr. Hoffman continued talking. Perhaps her mother would cook the luncheon. No, Mr. Hoffman would let her have a maid for that. A smart maid in a black dress and lace apron and cap.

"I haven't a lot of relations like Emma had," Mr. Hoffman was saying, and Irene's mind snapped back in time to grasp the significance of his words.

She and Tommy would live with him. They could remodel the house as they liked because some day it would be theirs. If wouldn't be any fun fixing the house but they could have a decorator from New York and that would make people open their eyes.

Irene was too much taken up with these thoughts to give Mr. Hoffman the answer he wanted and when she realized, as she did suddenly, that he was piling up inducement on inducement, she deliberately waited until he had made his final offer.

This is how it came about that, with the anticipation of a handsome wedding present in her mind, she issued her ultimatum to Tommy.

Tommy felt that the marriage should be delayed a while in respect to his aunt's memory—a decision which he shortly came to regret.

CHAPTER XVIII

Aunt Emma's sister, Ernestine, went home and the Hoffman marriage was left without a housekeeper. Mr. Hoffman did not wish to engage a hired one with Irene so soon to be installed in the place. No use spoiling the girl, he reasoned.

The part-time maid came in as usual, but things went a bit to pot. Mrs. Everett came over with Irene a time or two and restored the girl temporarily to a semblance of order but to this Irene objected. Her mother agreed with her when she pointed out the folly of letting Mr. Hoffman get any wrong ideas about her doing housework.

Beryl stayed away. She couldn't endure being around Tommy and Irene when they were together. The way Tommy's eyes followed Irene in a sort of worshipful daze fairly tortured Beryl. She could understand that there was no reason why Tommy should love her but how on earth had he happened to fall for Irene?

She'd have acted differently, however, if she'd been still in the cashier's cage of her stepfather's store. Then she might have seen for herself how Tommy was faring at home in regard to meals.

He was doing the marketing, and buying canned goods by the armful. That would have been all right but he never bought fresh vegetables and fruit to go with the tinned products.

All that Beryl knew of his hunger for home cooking such as his aunt had provided was evidenced in his appetite when he came to eat at the Everet table.

"Whoever said," she thought, "that people in love have no appetite didn't know so much."

Ordinarily when Tommy came to the house and Beryl was at home she found an excuse for departing as soon as she could. One night when she was particularly miserable over Tommy's blindness she went to her room.

She was unhappy for a particular reason. Beryl had granted a date, and it was an unusual date. It was with a young man who might, very possibly, want to make love to her. She'd had dates before but they were friendship dates. Usually with a boy she'd known all her life and who couldn't be suspected of being in love with her. When she did think there might be something of the kind in a boy's mind Beryl refused to go out with him alone. She had a feeling that even if she were ridiculous in being true to Tommy she was better for being true to herself.

To-night as she changed into one of her lovely new party dresses—dresses which Irene's soul, with envy, she actually suffered the remorse of unfaithfulness.

Her love for Tommy was a very real thing. She belonged to him wholly and unalterably. What did it matter if he knew nothing about it? It was her love and it was for her to tend or neglect it. Now she had chosen deliberately to neglect this love.

It was the fair thing to do, she had reasoned, when she made the date. Faith to herself. Certainly she could never kill her love for Tommy if she did not try.

Prentiss Gaylord could make her forget Tommy if anyone could. Prentiss—son of the man who made Velveteen, the soap she sang to advertise.

She had met him at the studio. He had come to New York especially to make her acquaintance, he had told her.

"I might have gone to Samoa on a tramp boat some fellows I know picked up on the coast," he added by way of impressing her with the measure of his desire to meet her. "But I had to know the girl who owned a voice like yours, so I came instead. You don't mind if I speak right out and say I think it's great, do you, Miss Borden?"

"I love compliments," Beryl admitted frankly.

"Well, then, maybe I can tell you how I feel about your voice and you won't laugh at me," he paused and plunged on. "It's like soft cotton when you're tired and a hot drink when you're cold, and ice when you're too warm and a lot of other soothing things."

Beryl smiled.

"I'm not much on romantic speeches, am I?" he conceded, and Beryl wondered at the wisdom in his tones.

"I wish I could say that your voice takes me back to the hours I spent at my mother's knee," he went on, "but I don't remember my mother. She died when I was a year old."

"And my father died when I was a baby," Beryl confided, establishing a bond between them.

This bond had developed until Beryl felt that restraints must be becoming seriously interested in her.

He had asked several times for a date and had always been refused until to-night. Some friends of his were giving a party in a cottage on the South Shore and he wanted her to go. Beryl had said no and he had begged her to reconsider.

She had telephoned him that afternoon accepting the invitation. This was after she'd heard that Tommy was coming to dinner. It came over her in a flash that she couldn't endure things as they were much longer. It wasn't enough to stay away from Tommy. She would have to stay away from home, too, when he came to the house. More than that, she'd have to make a fight to interest herself in someone else who would put Tommy out of her mind. Her popularity with the public hadn't done it. Her new clothes hadn't done it. Prentiss hadn't done it so far but she had not given him a fair chance.

To-night she would be different. She would not laugh at him if he became sentimental nor would she hold him at arm's length if he grew tender. But even as she put the finishing touches to her toilet and tried to harden her mind with worldly thoughts she was thinking about Tommy. She reminded in her room until Prentiss called for her.

Her relief at his arrival was so evident that both Tommy and Irene thought she must be growing fond of Prentiss.

Irene had opened the door for Prentiss and held him in conversation a few moments before she ran up to tell Beryl that her escort had arrived. Beryl knew this. She had seen the car and the curb and was putting on her jaunty little summer evening jacket when Irene opened her door.

"Who is he?" Irene asked breathlessly.

"Prentiss Gaylord."

The answer was unsatisfactory to Irene. "Yes, I know his name is Jaylord," she said excitedly. "But who is he?"

Beryl smiled at her. "You mean," she replied, "what relation is he, if any, to Gaylord, the big bubble and lather man of Oakdale?"

Irene was offended. "Oh well, of course, if you must be sarcastic when you're asked a civil question..." she began but Beryl cut her off.

Prentiss is the little bubble and lather man," she explained. He's his father's son. But let's go downstairs. I suppose you introduced yourself?"

"Of course I did! I had to be polite, didn't I?"

"Yes, I suppose you had to be," Beryl answered dreamily.

Irene flounced out of the room a few minutes later. She had delayed muttering to herself. Beryl followed to open a bottle of new perfume that Mr. Gaylord Sr. had sent her. He had said he might name it for her.

Prentiss was talking with Irene when Beryl joined them. Tommy was looking on with a scowl.

He looked at Prentiss and put out her hands in greeting. Laughingly she said, "You're a little late. Don't you know you mustn't keep an important person waiting?"

"Be yourself, young lady," he retorted. "Your boss held me up."

Beryl expected that he would pay the usual compliment. "And are you pretty?" She wished he would, for Tommy's benefit. But he appeared to have nothing of the kind in mind. Although he grinned at her she saw that he was looking over her shoulder at Irene. In his eyes was a light that she had never seen kindled there before.

CHAPTER XIX

After the first flash of dismay in which Beryl realized that Irene had entrapped Prentiss's admiration she wanted to laugh.

Wasn't it funny that just when she made up her mind to encourage him he should follow in Tommy's footsteps and succumb to Irene's shell of beauty?

Driving to the South Shore beside Prentiss in his black and chromium roadster Beryl pondered the effect of this new conquest upon her sister's attitude toward Tommy.

She could ponder undisturbed, for the companion had fallen strangely quiet. Was he thinking of Irene?

Beryl sighed, unheard against the wind that rushed against her face. There would be no problem for her to settle if Prentiss should transfer his attentions to Irene. She could slip back into her hopeless passion for Tommy. But did she want that?

Perhaps a little effort on her part... She moved closer to Prentiss. Beryl did not know exactly what she was doing. She'd never wangled a man like this before. What for? What if he should do it and she found it so horrible? Wasn't it cheap to lead a man on and then draw back? Hadn't he a right to feel offended when a girl did that?

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggly's Funny Fan

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

Once upon a time, as Uncle Wiggly was going to hop out from his house, he heard Nurse Jane Puzzy Wuzzy, in the Dr. Possum's car, saying that Uncle Wiggly heard his muskrat lady housekeeper say:

"Ouch! Oh, dear! How it hurts!"

"Is anything the matter, Nurse Jane?" asked Mr. Longears, not even stopping to twinkle his pink nose.

"Oh, I burned myself lifting a pot of cats' soup off the stove," answered Miss Puzzy Wuzzy.

"Where did you burn yourself, Nurse Jane?" asked the bunny uncle.

"On the end of my left paw," was the answer. "Oh, how it hurts!"

"I'll get Dr. Possum right away!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "He can do something to stop the burn."

Thinking no more about going for an adventure, Uncle Wiggly went to Dr. Possum and pretty soon this jolly old animal doctor came along the woodland road, carrying his bag of powders, pills and things for burns.

Dr. Possum carried his bag on his tail, which was curved over his back. His wife, Mrs. Possum, used to curl her tail up over her back in the same way and when her children were very small they rode on her back and held fast by curling their tails around their mother's tail. It was very funny.

"Oh, Dr. Possum!" squeaked Nurse Jane as he came in. "Can you do something to stop this burn on my paw?"

"Why, yes," Dr. Possum said. "It will make your paw cooler if it is fanned, and as you can't do it yourself some one must do it for you."

"But I don't want Uncle Wiggly to stay home and bother with me," said Miss Puzzy Wuzzy.

"Nonsense! Of course I'll stay home!" said the rabbit gentleman. "It is much better than the pain of your burn should stop than that I should have an adventure. I'll get a fan and fan you."

This he did after Dr. Possum had put on some medicine. But as Uncle Wiggly sat there, fanning Nurse Jane's burn, she could see that he was getting rather tired, though he never would say so. Then Nurse Jane had a fine idea.

"Why not turn on the electric fan and let that cool my burned paw?" asked the muskrat lady housekeeper, who was taking care of Uncle Wiggly's bungalow while his wife was in the country.

"The electric fan!" Jolly!" cried the rabbit gentleman. "I wonder why I

Horoscope

THURSDAY, JULY 22, 1931

Friendly stars hold away a great part of to-day, according to astrology. It is real as a lucky time for looking after tenants and checking up on investments.

In the morning women should benefit from the aspect which stimulates them to public activities.

Even though this may not be a fashionable month for weddings, the couple who are most auspicious for all who marry. All who plight troth under this direction of the stars may expect not only lasting love but steady progress, astrologers forecast.

This should be an ideal day for interviewing persons of prominence and should be fortunate for all who have political hopes. Women should concentrate on domestic interests as well as on outside amusements while this planetary government continues.

As the pendulum has swung back toward all "what is" distinctly familiar, stars smile on picturesque attire.

While many good aspects offer fair promise to-day, the hours after sunset may be unfavorable to agreements of any sort. It is well not to sign leases or important legal papers until a more favorable rule prevails.

Agriculturists may meet certain losses or disappointments, but astrologers assure them of ultimate gain.

In the western and southern states agriculture is to become more and more expanded with supreme success, the seers prophesy.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of pleasure through friends. Courtship and marriage are presaged for the young and middle-aged as well.

Children born on this day probably will be able to attain high place through own talents and exertions. Subjects of sign have a strong feeling for music drama.

Those who have celebrated it as a birthday include Charlotte Cushman, 1814, actress; Francisca Vidor, 1778, noted Y. Detective; Elias B. Thornton, 1799, poet.

AT THE THEATRES

SACRED MUSIC

IS PASSION

PLAY FEATURE

First Performance Given This Evening; Oratorio Numbers Heard

Master minds of the world of music have contributed to the great music score which accompanies the world-famous Freiburg Passion Play, to be presented here at the new Willows Auditorium for four days beginning this evening. Thirty-one orchestral numbers and eleven great choral numbers selected from well-known oratorios, sound out as a harmonious accompaniment to pageant processions, and even to the dialogue of the play in some of the most impressive scenes. The lights are dimmed as the play is about to start. The trumpets blow a fanfare. The fanfare dies away. The women's voices of the chorus pick up the dying trumpet note, swell it into great volume, and let it too die away. The orchestra plays a part of the "Parasol" overture from Wagner, followed by the "Adoration of the Cross," from Dubois' oratorio, "The Seven Last Words of Christ." During the tableaux preceding the opening scene, Adol. Passnacht, the Christus of the Play, sings the "Agnus Dei." To the notes of "Palm Branches," and "See the Conquering Hero Comes," Handel's play opens with the Jerusalem street scene and the triumphal entry of Jesus into the city. One of the most impressive scenes of the play is that of the Last Supper, during which, softly and impressively, the chorus sings "Ave Verum" by Mozart. Other great choral numbers are "March to Calvary," "Benedicite the Cross," and "Crucifixion Hymn," by Gounod, and the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah," with which the play ends in triumph. Between these numbers the orchestra plays some of the finest orchestral

DIRECT RELIEF MAY BE ASKED BY ESQUIMALT

Council Considers Means of Securing Funds to Aid Needy
in Municipality

Reeve James Erick of Esquimalt will study the direct relief scheme in which the federal, provincial and municipal governments share the costs of maintaining the destitute throughout Canada, during the week, and will report his findings to a special meeting of the council next Monday. He announced yesterday evening during discussion of ways and means in which the needy of his municipality could be aided. Suggestions were also made during the meeting that the unemployed of the district be summoned and told the municipality was unable to do anything for them except refer extreme cases to the Friendly Help Society.

A letter from the Workers' Alliance, stating the fact that a Municipality was obliged by law to look after its destitute, a request from the Friendly Help for a donation of $400 and other matters, pointing to the strained financial condition of Esquimalt gave rise to these moves.

The Workers' Alliance called attention to the distress and unemployment in the district. The letter from this organization urged the council to seek a more equitable policy from the Employment Bureau, which it maintained was discriminating against men from outside municipalities and giving work only to those of the city. Such a policy was not in accord with legislation governing the bureau, the communication stated.

It was reported Hon. R. H. Pooley, Attorney-General and member for the district, had been informed of this discrimination and had taken the matter up with the Minister of Labor. No definite steps were taken on August 1st, but the Hon. Mr. Pooley had indicated that the unemployed of the district be called together and informed of the actual conditions.

APPROPRIATION DWINDLING
Before granting a request from the Esquimalt Friendly Help Society for a donation of $400, the council heard Councillor Heald speak to the effect that there was only $800 left in the municipal coffers for donations, and that some of that had to be paid out for certain fixed services.

Question arose over the direct relief scheme, with the members of the council body voicing the opinion that in this plan the federal government paid 50 per cent, the provincial 30 per cent and the municipal 20 per cent of costs. Reeve Erick will go into the matter, secure accurate data and find out whether or not the municipality is entitled to a refund from the other two bodies for the money it has already spent in direct relief through the Friendly Help.

SAANICH BOARD DELAYS ACTION

Reeve Crouch's Attitude Towards Litigation With City
Denounced

All members of the Saanich School Board yesterday evening joined in deprecating the method adopted by Reeve Crouch and the municipal council in dealing with the board's request for advice as to appealing against a judgment for $1,272, with costs of $800, awarded by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald, to Victoria for high school fees for thirteen students not equipped with Saanich registration papers last year.

The council had declined to advise the School Board, and Reeve Crouch had written to the press in condemnation of the trustees' course.

Trustees expressed resentment of Reeve Crouch's action. "If he had written this board, it would have been different. The children are taught to give us an opinion when we interviewed them on the matter," the chairman protested. All members of the board agreed in supporting their refusal to pay the city's account.

Decision as to whether an appeal will be taken was again deferred to enable the board to ascertain exactly the cost involved.

ENTITLED TO SEIZE LANDS OF SOCIETY

The Esquimalt Council was informed that it could seize the land of a delinquent taxpayer and hold it until arrears had been paid, or sell a portion to realize the amount the original owners owed in levies to the municipality, providing it used legal methods, at its meeting yesterday evening in a letter from the municipal solicitor. The communication was an answer to the council's inquiry regarding its powers in the case of the Puget Sound Agricultural Society, commonly known as the Hudson's Bay Company.

The matter arose out of the municipal body's desire to secure accurate data on the courses it could pursue in case the society decided not to pay up its arrears.

Similar action could be taken against the Gorge Vale Golf Club, it was stated.

In neither case did the council consider making the seizure unless they received definite word from the owners that they, the owners, did not intend to pay.

Councillor Albert Heald suggested the council ask the Puget Sound Agricultural Society whether or not it intended to meet its taxes in order that the municipal body might have a free hand in the matter.

After considerable discussion, the communication was laid on the table.

World Famous Symphony Orchestra Aids In Teaching Cleveland Children To Appreciate Good Music

By HELEN WELSHIMER
School children of Cleveland are the first group of youngsters in the world to have major symphony orchestra concerts prescribed for them along with their reading and writing and geography. A certain amount of time is spent in musical appreciation in Cleveland classrooms every week. But the children do more than trip up and down the black and white ladders of song. They are not told that if they will open their mouths a little wider they may become glee club tenors or church sopranos. Instead, they are given a course in music appreciation which prepares them to understand the special concerts which the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, one of the twelve great symphonies of the world, gives for their benefit each winter and spring.

TAUGHT TO UNDERSTAND
They are taught to recognize a carnival scene in music from a street serenade, a tony dance from a marionette funeral. They must know who wrote the music to which they listen, when and where and why, and what the theme tells. They are trained to find the pictures in good music so they will not sit and yawn and twist their programmes as older people have a habit of doing.

And the vibrant stillness of Severance Hall, where the concert is held, is proof enough that children will like music when they understand it. There are no whispers, unless an ecstatic little voice tells another enraptured boy or girl to listen for the English horn that is coming next, or that it is almost time for the bassoons to take up the song while the violins dance on with the rhythm of the piece.

Miss Lillian Baldwin, supervisor of music appreciation in the Cleveland public schools, has prepared special programmes which form the basis of the music in the classroom. She believes that all children should be taught to slip away into the land of make-believe once in awhile. "Music is one of the best ways of all of going," she says. "For when we close our eyes and listen we can actually feel ourselves growing smaller and smaller with the fairies, shift with the bent old gnomes, and fierce and brave with the giants."

Miss Baldwin's printed programmes contain selections of the music, which the children are taught to hum and recognize. They are instructed in the instruments, also. Phonograph records supplement the classroom feature, as a means of letting the students become thoroughly conversant with a concert before they hear it played by the symphony orchestra.

Musical criticism is a compulsory part of this new education. Miss Baldwin believes that a child must not only like or dislike a selection but have a reason for his reaction.

Many schools supplement their music education with concerts but Cleveland took the initiative in having a routine programme as the basis of its training. A laboratory cycle of two concerts is used annually for a period of seven years, giving each child an opportunity to familiarize himself with fourteen concerts.

The Tuberculosis Veterans' Section of the Canadian Legion B.E.S.I. met yesterday evening in the club quarters at 1015 Blanshard Street. Representatives of the ladies' auxiliary were present for the purpose of discussing the forthcoming tag day in aid of the association funds.

The tag day will take place August 15, and Mrs. A. Booth and Mrs. R. V. Campbell will act as chief conveners. As president and secretary of the auxiliary they request that those who are willing to tag telephone G 5539, or G 2721.

Correspondence regarding the forthcoming Canadian Legion Convention was submitted to the meeting, and the members endorsed the action of the executive in allowing an Ontario tuberculosis delegate to represent the local section at the conference. A committee was appointed to draft an agenda covering various recommendations relative to pensions and treatment legislation, for submission to the Dominion conference.

75 years of sound development

At the outset of its career in 1855, this Bank's policy of "sound and conservative banking methods" was inaugurated. At the first annual meeting on July 15, 1857, the reserve fund was created with £4,800.

During more than three quarters of a century this Bank has consistently followed its sound policy. When bad financial weather darkened Canadian skies, this Bank weathered the storms and developed consistently by its own strength, and without mergers. Today its Reserves are 50 per cent greater than its paid up capital.

The principles upon which this sound record was built are those by which we safeguard the welfare of our clients.
